Description

This is a decent little utility trailer for the money. Some of the items we are impressed with, relative to price and what we are used to seeing on similar trailer would include: Primer prior to paint (many do direct to metal), they are now painted with urethane, not the traditional acrylic enamel, tube steel in the gate not angle iron, sandfoot and support on the A-frame jack, weld quality is surprisingly good, they lay the angle's so you can tie off to the bottom of each one.

See our video below or visit this link for a walk around the trailer: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=6XCjRLgOu2o&t=3s>

- 15" Tires and wheels
- 2000 lb. Drop-thru Jack
- 4' Gate
- 2" A-Frame Coupler
- Epoxy Primer w/ 2 Component Urethane Topcoat
- Al-Ko UltraLube Axle
