Description

This is a solid value on a gooseneck power tilt deckover. A deckover tilt can be a tricky trailer to get right as it has to be built heavy enough to do the job, but light enough to have sufficient payload, and we think they got this one right with the I-beam frame and HD bed runners. It also has an improved 15 degree load angle (some are 17 degrees and hard to load when wet or icy). The trailer is equipped with a dual piston hoist, and is power up/power down. Standard with Dexter 7000# axles and the newer Never Adjust Brakes that self adjust to the proper brake setting. Impressive I-beam frame, 4x4x1/4" wall tube bed frame (about 12#/ft), 6" tube side rail, and 16" O.C. bed crossmembers. The trailer is a dream to secure cargo as there are 5 different ways - rubrail/stake pockets/D-rings/pipe spools, and banjo eyes. There is a built in 110V charger to help keep the battery maintained, and also will get a trickle charge from the charge line in the sealed wiring harness. The gooseneck comes equipped with dual 12K jacks, an adjustable coupler, and a full front toolbox and neck gussets. Interstate deep cycle battery, KTI hydraulic pump, Sherwin Williams powdercoat, and a spring mounted rear light bar round out some of the options on this model. All Ironbull trailers are covered by the impressive Ironclad 2-3-2 warranty program (2 years structural, 3 year comprehensive, 2 year roadside), see below.
